I am known for my tireless commitment to mentoring—helping young talent and others to succeed and also envision a career path within IBM...and I like bacon.

Jill Sherman

Design Principal & Enterprise Design Thinking Leader

Chicago, IL, USA | +1 847 651 4793 | sunflowervelvet@hotmail.com

Jill is an accomplished and well-respected Enterprise Design Thinking Leader and Design Principal within IBM's Quantum organization, and has shared her expertise throughout the world. In her 20+ years of experience, 17 of those at IBM, she has embraced the art of the possible through successes on challenging first-of-a kind projects, both large and small.

The time Jill devotes to mentoring and volunteering is extremely valuable both to IBM and to the communities in which IBM does business. Through this work, Jill enhances her team's skills, her design craft, and the company's reputation. She exhibits personal responsibility in all her interactions, creates strong, long-lasting relationships and adds value by evangelizing IBM's focus of a sustainable design culture—refocusing client conversations from one about features and requirements to one about users and user outcomes.

Skills

- Mobile Design (iOS)
- Editorial Design
- Copywriting
- Branding
- Adobe Creative Suite

Interests

- Photography
- Snowboarding, Wing Foiling, Mountain Biking (preferably on the same day)
- Ice Hockey (playing and watching)
- Tending my Monarch butterfly garden

IBM Credentials